YESTERDAY'S BLAZE.

Senator Stewart's Residence has a Narrow Escape

About half past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a fire was discovered in Senator Stewart's house and an alarm promptly sounded. The fire companies were promptly on the spot but before they arrived the water was turned on from Stewart's artesian well tank, holding 200,000 gallons. This water kept the flames in check until the engines arrived. This saved the building.

When the firemen arrived they found the rear of the house a mass of flame, but by prompt and energetic work they confined it to the rear addition where it originated, and saved the main building. As it was however considerable damage was done by the taking up of carpets and the moving of furniture.

The damage will reach between $500 and $1,000, fully covered by insurance in the Hartford Company. The fire was supposed to have originated by some of Mrs. Stewart's grandchildren playing in the rear room and spread so rapidly that ladies in the upper part of the house barely got out in time to avoid being suffocated.

Mrs. Stewart desires to return thanks through the APPEAL for the gallant services rendered by the fireman and neighbors who assisted in saving the property.

ALL SORTS.

—Don't neglect to register today for the city election.

—All dogs in this city will in future be taxed one dollar.

—Ex-Lieut. Gov. Laughton left for San Francisco last evening.

—The rain of yesterday morning was about enough to give the grass a good start.

—Mr. Gibson is already doing a large business with his new restaurant and setting a splendid table.

—The Evening Report intimates pretty strongly, that some financial pie was passed around to the jurors in the Frankel case.

—W. G. Spinks was arrested yesterday for acting as agent for a California wine house and refusing to pay a license.

—Lieutenant Danenhwer, one of the survivors of the Jeanette expedition, blew his brains out at the naval academy yesterday morning.

—Mr. Pugh was the first man appointed by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, — appropriate name. The bill already begins to have a rank smell.

—The Examiner shows considerable enterprise by sending its reporter staff up in a balloon. Doubtless hunting for the bottom facts in the Kissane case.

—If your hair is turning gray, don't use the poisonous dyes which burn out its life and produce many diseases of the scalp. Ayer's Hair Vigor is positively harmless, and will restore the natural color of the hair, stimulate its growth, and bring back its youthful gloss and beauty.

—The Report calls attention to the fact that the insurance policy of a secret society is not solid unless the society has paid $200 into the State Treasury. The law however does not compel a secret society to pay its policies. It is the honor of the order, frequently better than the law.

—The statement that General Logan's forthcoming book, "The Volunteer Soldier in America," which is now in press of R. S. Peale & Co., of Chicago, will contain letters from General Sherman to General Logan, regarding the appointment of General O. O. Howard to the command of the Third Army Corps after the battle of Shiloh, but all are of a friendly nature. The report circulated that the Sherman family has tried to suppress these letters is also denied by Mr. Peale. The book is likely to create controversy, but it will not contain any document not creditable to Sherman and to Logan as his friend.

Register.

This is the last day of Register in the city election the Mugwumps were bragging yesterday that they had nine tenths of all the voters on the list and wore a high feather. Go and get registered and get your friends to, its a matter of importance and must be attended to.

GENERAL SHERMAN.

He is Willing to Have that "Compromising" Letter Given to the Public.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The following card, published this morning, explains itself:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HERALD"—I have seen a paragraph which has been going the rounds to the effect that General Logan's papers contain a letter from General Sherman, of a compromising nature, which he and his brother, the Senator, had endeavored to suppress, and in your issue today I find that one of your Washington correspondents has interviewed Senator Sherman, who treats the whole matter with proper contempt. Now, I reaffirm every word my brother is reported to have said. General Logan's friends are at perfect liberty to publish in full any letter I ever wrote to him, private, confidential, or official. Further, if Mrs. Logan or John A. Logan Jr. will send me an accredited agent, I will permit him to see and copy all letters to be published to gratify the curious. All men in public station write private letters as well as public. In this instance I withdraw limitation as to publication, only suggesting that the letter and answer be published together, as more satisfactory to the honest reader. A paragraph here and a paragraph there is as much a forgery as the raising of a check.

W. T. SHERMAN,
FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL,
New York, April 16th.

American Opera.

The production of first-class American opera in San Francisco has proven an immense hit. The APPEAL hopes the American opera will run out the macaroni and sour kraut operas, until the high priced foreign warblers will keep away from this country. The foreign opera is of late getting to be a rambling lot of music with one good waltz tune in it.

When a foreign opera composer runs across a good catching waltz he builds a waltz round it and under various pretences strews the waltz all through the piece, occasionally varying the tune. Then he beats the author of the waltz out of the royalty and plays the hatch-patch in all the leading American cities with a decayed antediluvian soprano and a tenor of the last decade.

Quinn's Case.

Poor Quinn, he was a hard-working miner, saved up a few thousands, placed it in the crafty hands of Frankel & Co., and saw it swept away. He now lies in the City prison of San Francisco, on a charge of an assault with a deadly weapon, and hasn't a dollar between him and the poor house.

In a few years we will hear of the Frankels enjoying themselves on Quinn's hard earned money in some German watering place, and poor Quinn will be dead and buried. If you want people to settle up Nevada, there must be less of these cursed broker's scandals.

Another Question for Bell.

Since ex-Warden Bell has seen fit to take issue with the APPEAL and rushed into print with a letter from the Prison Commissioners, the APPEAL would like to enquire of him, if the letter alleged to have been written by the Commissioners, which appeared in the Journal was printed exactly as the Commissioners wrote it.

The APPEAL asserts that it was not and the APPEAL refers anyone, who doubts its assertion, to the original copy of the letter now in the Secretary of State's office.

Hannah Moore's Plan.

Hannah Moore, when she was told a tale against anyone in her village, usually answered: "Come we will go and ask if that be true." The effect was something wonderful. The tale-bearer taken aback, would begin to say: "Well, perhaps there may have been a mistake," and beg that no notice be taken of the matter. But no, the good lady would go there and then, taking the scandal-monger with her to make inquiry and compare accounts. If all tale bearers could be treated in this way, few tales would be told.—Dayton Times.

—Lucky Baldwin was only running a bluff when he flourished around and offered to run Volante against The Bard. He has already taken water, after having acquired all he wanted for his horse, a lot of free Associate Press advertising.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

What a Prominent Renote Says of Them—Henry Orr's Enterprise.

Mr. Henry Orr, one of Reno's most enterprising citizens, has been visiting Plumas and Sierra counties, California, since Wednesday last. His purpose was to investigate the process of sinking artesian wells. This with a view to commencing operations immediately in Spanish Spring Valley. To a Journal representative, on his arrival, he said that he was very favorably impressed with the prospects before him. The C. P. R. R. Company offer a bonus of $1,000 to anyone who will strike water on any one of the quarter sections it owns in that valley, while the State is willing to pay $1.50 per foot, no matter what depth is reached, provided water can be found. Mr. Orr says that he will begin operations very soon, and that if he succeeds, of which he entertains no doubt, the C. P. R. R. Company will place on the market at once large tracts of valuable land, which they will dispose of from $1.50 to $2 per acre to actual settlers, and on terms that will justify settlement on these lands.

BREVITIES.

Local and General News.

—The Sultan of Turkey is said to have 494 wives and other lady friends.

—The Paradise Horse Association is to give an exhibition on the 26th instant.

—Three Washoe Indians are in the Douglas county jail on the charge of burglary.

—Dr. Rae expects to have his dredger in operation by the 15th of next month.

—Ex-Senator Fair is said to be sorry that he sold his South Pacific Coast railway.

—The Evening Report says that "Virginia City is crammed jammed with toughs, opium fiends, tramps, etc."

—George William Curtis is said to have soured on the President because the latter's Civil Service ideas do not suit him.

—Fireman Taylor was severely injured near Brown's station, Humboldt county, last week, by falling off the tender of a locomotive while the train was in motion.

—According to the Los Angeles Herald, it can now procure printing paper in Germany and land it in Los Angeles cheaper than it can buy at Eastern mills and bring it to this Coast.

—To a San Francisco reporter, Theodore Sutro, of New York City, said last Saturday that he had very little doubt but that the present complications surrounding the Sutro Tunnel will soon be cleared away.

—Charles Young, formerly an engineer at the Baltimore mine, in Storey county, died near Butte, Montana, recently. His life was insured for $4,000, and the whereabouts of his heirs, if there be any, are not known.

—Says the Modoc Independent: The people of Surprise Valley are again agitating the question of boring artesian wells, and we understand that a company has been organized for the purpose of giving the matter a thorough test.

Cheap Advertising.

Yesterday the Clerk of the Board of City Trustees was circulating about among the newspaper officers soliciting bids for the work of publishing a city ordinance. The Union made an appraisal of its advertising columns and offered to do the work for nothing.

No other paper in the city can afford to do work at these figures and pay its hands every Saturday night. As it is a general rule to charge regular merchants less for advertising than transient city or county advertising, they ought to be able to make pretty reasonable terms with an office that is willing to take such advertising gratis.

It seems rather imposing on the Clerk of the Board to compel him to tramp all over the city and call on the multitudinous newspaper offices and ask for bids.

As the newspaper offices increase; and they are increasing yearly, the duties of the Clerk become more onerous, and it looks to us as if he should be allowed a reasonable mileage to reimburse the loss of shoe leather.
